

Pastor Ron Adams,
Madison Mennonite Church:

One of the loveliest visions of justice recorded in scripture is that there will come a day when everyone will enjoy the fruit of their own labor (Psalm 128). To me this vision speaks to our present-day circumstances, in which workers have the fruits of their labor go to benefit corporate heads and stockholders. I believe every worker ought to receive a wage that makes it possible for them to provide for themselves and their family. A living wage is a step in the right direction, and a step closer to the biblical vision.
